Deuteronomy 1:1-46

| Date |  |  |
|------|--|--|
| Date |  |  |

| 1.  | These [be] th        | e                | which                                 | sp                | ake unto all I | srael on this side |
|-----|----------------------|------------------|---------------------------------------|-------------------|----------------|--------------------|
|     | in                   | the              | , in the                              | plain over again  | nst the        | [sea],             |
|     | between Paran, an    | nd Tophel, and   | Laban, and                            | ·                 | , and          | ·                  |
| 2.  | And it came          |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | first [day] of the _ |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | unto                 | that the LO      | RD had giv                            | en him in         | unt            | o them;            |
| 3.  | Turn you, and        | d take your      |                                       | _, and go to the  |                | _ of the           |
|     | Amorites, and un     |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | in the               |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | land of the          | , and ι          | ınto Lebano                           | on, unto the grea | at             | , the river        |
| 4.  | So I took the        |                  | of your tr                            | ibes,             | men, and       | d known, and       |
|     | made them            |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | over hundreds, ar    | d captains over  | · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · | , and capta       | ins over tens, | and                |
|     | ar                   |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
| 5.  | And ye came          |                  | _ unto me _                           | o                 | ne of you, an  | d said, We will    |
|     | send men before i    | us, and they sha | ıll                                   | us out the        | e              | , and bring us     |
|     | ag                   | gain by what     |                                       | _ we must go u    | p, and into w  | hat                |
|     | W                    | e shall come.    |                                       |                   |                |                    |
| 6.  | And ye               |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | us, he hath          |                  |                                       |                   | , to           |                    |
|     | us into the hand o   | of the           | , to de                               | estroy us.        |                |                    |
| 7.  |                      |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | good                 | , which I sw     | rare to                               | unto              | your           | ,                  |
| 8.  | SaveI give the   | the son          | of Jephunr                            | neh; he shall     | i              | t, and to him will |
|     | I give the           | that he          | hath                                  | upon,             | and to his ch  | ildren, because    |
|     | he hath              | followed         | the LORD.                             |                   |                |                    |
| 9.  | [But]                | the son          | n of                                  | , which           | standeth befo  | ore thee, he shall |
|     | go in                | : encourage      | him: for he                           | shall cause       | to             | 0                  |
|     | it.                  |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
| 10. | So I                 |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |
|     | against the          | of the           | LORD, an                              | d went            | up int         | o the              |
|     | ·                    |                  |                                       |                   |                |                    |