The Most Quoted Verse of the Bible

Every day I hear this particular verse quoted. I hear it around town as people mill about and shop. They will quote the verse as they pick up an item and examine its price or discuss its properties. They quote the verse when they see someone they haven't seen in a long time or when told surprising news

I've seen it on magazine covers on the newsstand. If you watch any television at all, you'll soon hear the verse quoted. You will hear it frequently at sporting events. Often it's quoted multiple times in a row by one person repeating it when surprised or shocked.

Young and old alike quote this Bible verse. Children learn it at an early age from their parents and then it's reinforced at school, mass media, and the Internet. I know students hear it at school everyday, and I'm sure multiple times in classes, lunch, and any activity.

If you email or text, you've probably seen someone quote this verse. I've seen the verse printed on shirts. The quoting of this verse is so common, I'm sure I'll hear it before the day is over.

The only problem with all these people and various media quoting the verse is they never finish the verse. They only quote the first three words.

The verse is Psalm 25:2, "O my God, I trust in thee: let me not be ashamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me."

I ran the above article for the first time the first Sunday in April last year, 2010. This past week I learned that the Oxford English Dictionary on, or about March 24, 2011 officially included the three-letter term, "OMG" as a word in the dictionary. (I did note when I ran a spell check on this article, the computer did not recognize "OMG" as a word. I'm glad.)

It's saddening to know that our society's use of the Lord's name in vain has become so common, that it's so quickly and easily recognizable simply as initials and included in the dictionary.

The world might include it, and use it as a standard term, but we can make it have no part of our lives and words. When you use the Lord's name, use it with the respect and reverence with which it is to be used.

"But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment."

—Matthew 12:36.

Baseball season began this past Thursday. Each team begins the season tied for first place in their respective divisions. They have hope of a successful year because they are beginning a new season and starting with an unblemished record. The losses of years past will not be taken into account.

As Christians, our lives are like this. Our past mistakes are not held against us when we properly obey and continue to live for the Lord. Unlike baseball, we all can be victorious in the Lord.
